Radical Ideas of Student in Reform of Women Convicts

Dr. Katherine B. Davis, attending the convention of the American Prison Association, advocates polygamy as a national institution, unless society demands the same code of morals for both men and women.

"The fact that men are permitted a standard entirely different from and foreign to that demanded of women," says Dr. Davis, after ten years as head of the New York State Reformatory for Women, "is the main, almost the sole, cause of crime among women."

The most important tendency in prison reform of today, according to Dr. Davis, is the tendency to treat the prisoner, not the crime.

By SELENE ARMSTRONG.

"I advocate polygamy as a national institution, open and recognized, if the identical standard of morals is impossible for both men and women."

This is the deliberate opinion of Dr. Katherine B. Davis, Ph. D., of the University of Chicago, who also holds degrees from half a dozen or more foreign universities, and who, as one of the leading woman penologists of the world, is a leading figure at the present convention of the American Prison Association. Miss Davis heads the New York State Reformatory for women, the only institution of its kind in America, and one of the few women's reformatories in this country, Massachusetts and Indiana being the only States which have thus far provided special homes for their women prisoners.

Have Two Standards.

"The cause of the crimes committed by the great majority of women," said Miss Davis when interviewed this morning, "is the fact that there is one set of morals for men, and an entirely different standard for women."

"In the New York State Reformatory, of which I have charge, and in which there are between 200 and 400 women, there are few who are not the victims, primarily or solely, of this double standard. By it the woman is made to feel the complete tolerance, if not the approval, of society, while men go to a prison from which they are never reclaimed, and our founding asylums are filled with defective children."

"And so, I say emphatically, if it is impossible for men to live by standards which civilization requires of its women, then let us establish an open system of polygamy, and let children be given the love and care, and opportunity that every human being born into the world deserves. Would this not be infinitely better than our present system and its moral rottenness?"

Miss Davis, who is a Vassar graduate, and was for several years in Philadelphia, has headed the New York State Reformatory for Women for ten years. She has secured an international reputation as a criminologist, and has worked with signal success to reform hundreds of so-called female criminals who have come under her supervision since the establishment of the reformatory.

She believes that penology opens a new field of endeavor and usefulness to women, who are peculiarly fitted temperamentally for certain phases of the work.

Asked what she considers the chief tendency in prison reform methods of the present day, Dr. Davis replied:

"The individualizing of our prison system, by which I mean the attempt to reform the prisoner, not in masses, but as individuals. We have come to see that it is the prisoner, not the crime, which needs to be dealt with."

"At the New York State Reformatory, which is situated thirty-nine miles north of New York," continued Dr. Davis, "we have put into execution the cottage plan of living. By putting the prisoners in cottages, it is easier to classify them, so that women for whom there is hope of reform need not be in constant contact with those who border upon depravity. Our reformatory has 50 acres of land, which furnishes out of door work and recreation for our women."

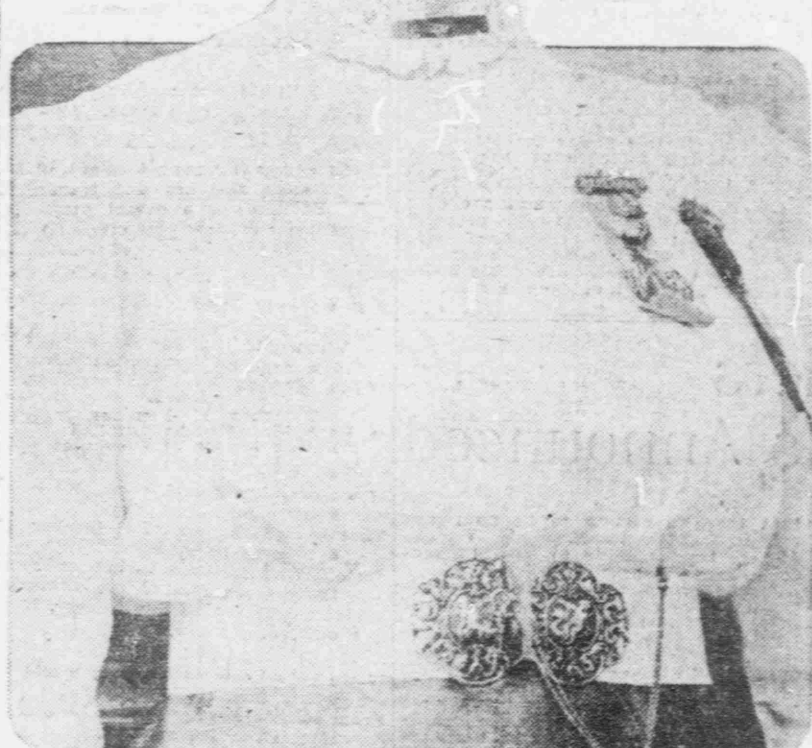

Many Are Illiterate.

Dr. Davis stated that 10 per cent of the women who come under her charge are totally illiterate, while 12 per cent can neither read nor write English. "They are sent regularly to school while under our care, and are also taught domestic science and other industrial work."

"We place these women out as domestic servants, nearly all of them, when they leave us. That seems about the only avenue open to them. Because their lives have been so far from the standards set by civilization for its women, if not for men, society has little to offer them. But women frequently tell us:

"I will take as a servant any woman who can wash my dishes properly, and do the housecleaning without my supervision."

Miss Davis spoke recently in Baltimore before a large gathering there, who are setting on foot a movement to obtain appropriations for a woman's reformatory for the State of Maryland. She returned to Washington today, to attend the convention of the American Prison Association here, and later the International Prison Congress.

CONSUMER MUST PAY FOR MILK ADVANCE

Grocers Claim the Move Is an Attempt to Deflect Their Trade.

Milk Situation Today in Washington

Small consumers must pay for increased wholesale price of milk by dealers' rate of 5 cents per pint.

Grocers in arms over increase in price of "dipper milk" by 4 cents over rate of last year.

Information filed with United States District Attorney regarding uniform increase in rates by local milk dealers.

Winter price for milk per quart, which goes into effect today, remains at 9 cents a quart.

The small consumer must pay for the increased wholesale price dealers must pay for milk this winter.

The winter rates for milk went into effect today.

In accordance with the promise made by the dealers' association, milk will retail for 9 cents a quart, the same price charged last winter. But 5 cents will be charged for serving a pint of milk this winter, while 4 cents was charged for this service last season.

This announcement was contained in circulars sent out by many dealers today in type that was inconspicuous beside the black face bulletins that "Dealers have increased the wholesale cost of milk the usual winter rate of 9 cents will prevail."

This means that the burden of meeting the increased cost of milk will fall on the poorer families of the city.

According to officers of the Milk Dealers' Association 5 cents by every member of the association. To increase, it was said, was to be decided upon at a secret meeting of the dealers. That the added breakage of bottles made it necessary to raise the rate for milk sold in small quantities was the reason given for the increase to the buyers of small quantities of milk.

"Dipper Milk" Goes Up.
Another line of retrenchment that promises to trouble the consumer is the increase of 4 cents per gallon over the price charged last winter for the so-called "dipper milk."

Members of the dealers' association have agreed that each dealer will stick to their pledge, made at a secret meeting of the dealers, that they will not increase the price of milk sold in small quantities.

It was admitted that the dealers' association had agreed that each dealer will stick to their pledge, made at a secret meeting of the dealers, that they will not increase the price of milk sold in small quantities.

By the same token Colonel Roosevelt has it in his power to utterly ruin the political career of Senator Beveridge and to give the progressive movement a big blow from which it will not recover for years. This is the calm, deliberate judgment of the Republican leaders who are speculating on the nature of the speech to be delivered by Roosevelt when he comes here this month to assist in the Beveridge campaign.

Indiana is an insurgent State. Former Senator Hemmway, one of the leaders of the standstill crowd, which is opposing the re-election of Beveridge, admits that 75 per cent of the voters in the State are dissatisfied with the tariff law.

Indiana is not hysterically insurgent or progressive. It has not been and will not be swept off its feet by wholesale denunciations of corporations or of laws or of men. It takes insurgency seriously, studies it, analyzes it and the cause which have brought it about and the principles for which it is fighting. Indiana is insurgent, not because it is good for nothing, but because it is made up of the reactionaries of Fairbanks, Hemmway, and Watson.

Visit May Work Harm.
If Colonel Roosevelt comes to Indiana prepared to discuss the cause of the progressives sanely and to deal with specific problems with specific suggestions, he will go far in forwarding the movement in the State and toward insuring the re-election of Senator Beveridge. If he delivers himself of platitudes, urges new nationalism, denounces the United States Supreme Court, and, in short, conducts himself much after the manner which characterized his trip through Kansas, he will do irreparable harm to the cause of the progressives.

WANT AD MAN NAMES WINNERS IN CONTEST

Miss Almarie K. Everett Will Witness "The Echo" With Bessie McCoy at the National, and E. W. Holland Gets Seats to Columbia to See "New York."

It must be too easy. Hundreds of answers to the problem that appeared in yesterday afternoon's Times deluged the desk of The Times Want Ad man today.

The Want Ad man was sorely puzzled because dozens of the answers were correct. So he was obliged to take into account originality and neatness.

After careful consideration, he has decided that Miss Almarie K. Everett, the Manor House, whose solution was given in clever form, is entitled to see Bessie McCoy in "The Echo," at the National Theater on Monday night.

Equally original was the reply of E. W. Holland of the Colorado building, who will be awarded a pair of seats to the Columbia on Monday night to witness the performance of "New York."

These two answers did not by any means exhaust the originality of the contestants. One writer clipped out the small type in which the problem was printed and inserted in big letters the missing words printed in large type in other parts of the paper.

Another cleverly engraved the word "Times" in large letters, beginning with a small "T" and ending with a large "S," and appended the following note:

"You may get better answers, but I have been stung in the same way too many times."

The winning answers filled in the blanks with the following words: Talk to the Town Through The Times for tickets to the performance of "The Echo" at the National, and of "New York" at the Columbia Theater.

All answers to the problem that appears today must reach the Want Ad man by tomorrow at noon. Answers received after that time can not be given consideration, as he must have time to go through the solutions in time to decide which will be announced in the last edition.

TEACHERS INCREASE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Campaign to Round Up Delinquents Adds Hundreds of Pupils.

An unprecedented increase in attendance at the public schools was reported at headquarters today when the enrollment figures for the first two weeks of the school year were submitted to Assistant Superintendent P. M. Hughes.

The enrollment in the public schools yesterday was 43,738. This is an increase of 1,572 pupils over the same day of last year. The high water mark has not been reached as the full enrollment is generally not reached until about November 1.

This number was distributed as follows: High Schools, 5,300; Normal Schools, 268; Grade Schools, 44,000.

This big increase was shown when attendance reports for colored schools were compared with those of the same day last year. The enrollment for the second Wednesday of the school year was less than 14,000. Last Wednesday's total was 15,242. The normal increase, the officials said, was about 800, leaving 1,000 to be accounted for by the work of volunteer teachers. Nearly all of the increase was in the lower grades.

The same line of work is now being carried on by sending circular letters to parents and guardians believed to be keeping their children from school.

The Chain Bridge School may be closed unless the enrollment is increased. So far but twenty-two pupils have reported there. These pupils will be the care of by the Fort Reno and the Wornley schools if the Chain Bridge School is closed.

A general alarm was sent out and about 5 o'clock this morning Ellis West, William Fisher, and James Carter, all negroes, were arrested and taken to police headquarters. On West was found an open-face watch, a penknife, $1.17 in money, and a note-book answering the description given by Mr. Rose of the one taken from him.

In the police court Mr. Rose later identified Ellis West as the man who had the pistol and took the articles from him, but could not identify the other men. West was sent to jail for ninety days and fined $100 for assault, and also given six months in jail for larceny of a watch. The other two men were dismissed.

VANNUTELLI BIDS WASHINGTON ADIEU

Papal Envoy Leaves Capital for Baltimore, After Unprecedented Reception.

Cardinal Vannutelli, envoy of Pope Pius X, after having been in the city for two days by the highest dignitaries of the church in America, and receiving the bended knee from nearly every Catholic in Washington in a reception that has eclipsed any welcome ever given to a visiting prelate, left Washington this morning at 10 o'clock for Baltimore, where he will be entertained by Cardinal Gibbons.

In the party at the depot to see the venerable cardinal off, were Mr. Falconio, who has been by his side continuously since his arrival here Thursday morning from Montreal, where he was personal representative of the Pope at the Eucharistic Congress; Archbishop Ireland, Mr. Prince De Croix and Mr. Tamm, both members of his suite; Mr. Shahan, rector of the Catholic University, and others of note, who have assisted in the religious demonstration given the cardinal by Catholics of the National Capital.

Cardinal Vannutelli expressed his great pleasure this morning just before his train left, at the magnificent demonstration given him last night at St. Patrick's rectory and church, when over 12,000 Catholics of the city knelt in the streets to receive the papal benediction from his hands and to pay him unprecedented tribute of loyalty and devotion.

Guest of the Clergy.
Shortly before the solemn service, surrounded by archbishops, monsignors, and prelates, the cardinal was dined by the Washington clergy, with the Rev. William T. Russell, rector of St. Patrick's as host. Toasts to the Holy Father and to the Pope of the United States were drunk, and the cardinal received a welcome from the civil authorities of the District in the person of Commissioner Cuno, of the Academy.

The church and rectory were resplendent with red, white and blue electric lights the last crowd sang sacred and patriotic songs, and cheer after cheer rent the air.

In this procession that marched from the rectory to the door of the church were scores of altar boys, ecclesiastical students, the clergy of the city, monsignors, Archbishop Ireland and Archbishop Falconio, and lastly the cardinal and his suite.

Seated on Scarlet Throne.
The cardinal occupied a scarlet throne on the gospel side of the altar, facing a similar throne occupied by Mr. Falconio on the epistle side. Standing before the great altar, Cardinal Vannutelli pronounced the papal blessing over the kneeling congregation. The benediction hymns were then sung and the brief service concluded by the benediction to the Holy Father. He then immediately on conclusion of the service, saying that he was almost exhausted with the strenuous visiting of the day, he remained at his apostolic legation as guest of Mr. Falconio.

Cardinal Vannutelli, in speaking of the loyalty he has seen expressed by Washington Catholics, said that if America was young in science and the arts, yet it was about the oldest in devotion to the Holy Father. He further declared that Dr. Russell had nobly acquitted himself, and proposed a toast to the rector of St. Patrick's.
